Buffalo Hill News

Wheat seeding is nearing completion and the growth is very rapid at present.

There seems to be an abundance of small flies in the stubble this year which are very persistent in their friendliness to both tractor driver and teamster. We wonder what will come along next.

Mr. and Mrs. Jennijohn were Calgary visitors on Monday and Tuesday of last week.

We are sorry to hear that Agnes McInelly is confined to her bed.

Mrs. D. J. McInelly and children, Doris and Jack, were visitors to Calgary on Tuesday.

Mr. Jennijohn has been assisting M. P. Marshall with his seeding, using his new Tiller Combine. Mr. Marshall has been a patient in the Vulcan Hospital, receiving treatment for his heart. He is now able to return home.

Mr. and Mrs. Neve are motoring to Chicago, where Mr. Neve has two sisters whom he has not seen for nearly twenty years. One of the sisters is just returning from a trip to Norway. This is a very opportune time to go, as they will be able to take in the World's Fair besides renewing acquaintances with other members of the family. We wish them a pleasant trip.

Farewell for Mrs. J. Beagle

Mrs. F. C. Miller entertained members of the Ladies' Aid at her home on Friday afternoon at a farewell party in honor of Mrs. J. Beagle, who will soon leave for the States on an extended trip, where she will visit with relatives.

The afternoon was pleasantly spent, after which a dainty lunch was served by the hostess. Mrs. Beagle was presented with an autograph from her many friends, who were present.

Health Education in the School

The pupils of Grades 1 to 3 have made a Health House out of food stuffs and this is the story written by Marvin Dumka.

All the pupils wrote essays and the best essay was kept to go with the house.

This is the practical teaching of food values, to the child that will never be forgotten, and will prove a great benefit in future years.

OUR HEALTH HOUSE

On March 16, 1933, we made a health house. We shingled the roof with peaches because they make you strong. The chimney is made of beans which have starch in them. Around the windows and door we put raisins because there is iron in them. The house was stuccoed with rolled oats, because it helps us to build strong bodies.

There are two wagons in the yard. One is filled with popcorn and the other is filled with apples. Milk helps to make our teeth strong. Peanuts are good for us because they give us energy. We put a swimming pool in the yard so the fairies can keep clean. Bread is good for us because it has starch, sugar and fat in it. Rice keeps us healthy and strong. Dates have sugar and vitamins which keep us healthy. The white stones around the yard, tells us that fairies are clean and the trees and flowers make the yard look pretty.

MARVEN BISHOP.

The girls basketball game between Arrowwood and Milo attracted great attention, both teams playing hard and furiously. Wills That Make Trouble

One Can Complicate Matters As Effectively As A Dozen

Mention was made in a recent law suit arising out of a will of the fact that the testator had made nine last wills and testaments.

This seems a fairly large number, but it is by no means a record. One woman made a dozen wills within a few years, and on the death of a former Duke of Sutherland it was found that he had left no fewer than ninety-two wills behind him.

But if the man who makes a number of different wills may complicate matters for the beneficiaries, the man who makes only one can sometimes do so just as effectively.

In one case a wealthy man was in the habit of lending copies of an elaborately kept diary for the year annually to four of his friends. They soon got bored and stopped reading them. But one of them discovered by accident, some years after the diary's death, that he had written his will on page 641 of the diary.

Meantime, the estate had passed to a distant relative, and it was only after a long lawsuit that the four legates were able to recover what was left of it.

Holds Record As Linguist

Dr. C. H. Irwin Convents With Every Living and Dead Language

The single tongue in which he belongs to Dr. C. H. Irwin, who is retiring from the post of editor and general secretary of the Religious Text Society, is his spoken and read more languages than any other living man. French, Spanish, Italian, Portuguese, Hungarian, Dutch, Russian and German come to him almost as easily as English. In addition to this, he has edited the Gospels in nine different languages, including Finnish, Serbian, Polish, Czech, Hungarian and modern Greek. These are living languages; but he is thoroughly conversant with dead languages such as Latin, Greek and Hebrew.

Not are his linguistic attainments confined to Europe and the Near East. He knows enough of many native African tongues to be able to correct proofs or translations of the Bible.

As general secretary of the Religious Text Society he has had to respond during his thirty-five years' service with his pen in most parts of the world, and seldom as easily as he does by a letter written in even the most out-of-the-way language. Most of us who know only English have but a faint idea of the work of our command. Dr. Irwin is master of at least 4,000,000 words.

Planes Link Trappers

With Trading Posts

Hudson's Bay Company Arrange Service To Care For Lonely Men

The Hudson's Bay Company, one of the oldest of trading companies, is taking steps to keep some of the world's loneliest men in touch with civilization. Its trappers send winter in the far-away Arctic regions, many of them three or four weeks' journey from the nearest post at which supplies can be obtained.

Now an aeroplane service has been instituted to care for these lonely men. In the past they have come into contact with civilization only once a year during their annual visits to the company's trading posts, and supplies have been taken to them during the summer by trading ships. Now they will be within three days' journey of the great cities of Canada, from which the 800 horsepower aeroplanes will set out, bearing mail and newspapers, food and other supplies. Each aeroplane can carry three tons of goods. The machines are fitted with skis, which enable them to land on snow or ice. Besides taking goods to the trappers they will bring back furs.

Remedy For Diabetes

Explained To Doctors

Treatment With Insulin Can Be Given Through the Nose

The new treatment for diabetes recently explained to the International Physiological Congress in Rome was developed at the Israel-Zion Hospital in Brooklyn. It has just been revealed. Dr. William S. Collins who developed the treatment and explained it to physicians from all parts of the world assembled in Rome for the conference, chief of the Israel-Zion Hospital.

The old method of giving diabetes sufferers injections of insulin from a hypodermic needle has long been considered unsatisfactory by many physicians because of the tendency of the wound caused by the needle to become infected. Insulin taken through the mouth loses its potency in the stomach.

Through Dr. Collins' experiments in Brooklyn, it was found possible to give insulin through the nose. When this method was first tried doctors said it was found that the insulin would not penetrate the mucous membranes of the nose. Dr. Collins succeeded after repeated experiments in giving the insulin through the nostrils which made the lining permeable.

The sight of it, still soaring Above the waves and foam, Makes yet more dear to me the thought Of nesting birds back home!

Fence Built To Stop Locusts

Government Of Buenos Aires Starts Its Annual Fight

A circling for its annual war against locusts as summer approaches, the Government announced that by March end it would have 7,600 miles of galvanized iron barriers and 6,200 miles of zinc fencing across the Chaco frontier.

Put together with 9,400,000 rivets, the fencing stops the hoppers before they reach the jumping age.

The pests crawl out of the Chaco swamps, halt at the barriers, are raked up and burned.

Ancient Toads

Amphibians, 1900 Years Old, Released From Wall In Greece

A Pennsylvania toad that survived 33 years in a cannibal is only a runner-up. William Alexander Campbell, professor of art and archaeology at Wesleyan College, has revealed.

Professor Campbell said he was pursuing the excavation of a Greek theatre in Corinth, Greece, this summer, when according to coins found on the site must have been erected about the first century A.D.

Suddenly two Greek toads hopped out of a hole just made by a pickaxe in the hands of a workman. The 1900-year-old lizards, leaping amphibians, shuddered, blinked and hopped off among the ruins. Professor Campbell said.

Another Hunger Striker

Descendant Of "King Tut" To Starve Until Valuable Relics Released

A descendant of the Egyptian King Tut-ankh-Amen, who for years has claimed the Tut-ankh-Amen treasures from the Egyptian Government, has decided to emulate the example of Mahatma Gandhi, in India, and begin a hunger strike for the possession of the valuable relics.

In a letter to the newspapers, the descendants of the Egyptian Pharaohs says he intended to proceed to the historic temple of Edin on October 11, the date on which Tut-ankh-Amen died thirty centuries ago. There, he will hold to his fast until death, unless the authorities hand over the golden treasures.

I dwell, or in the sunless valleys, where

The shadows lie, what matter, He is there.

A Continent At War

South America Countries Fight While Geneva Discusses World Peace

It is an ironic commentary upon the campaign for disarmament that at the very time when their representatives are at Geneva discussing plans to establish world-peace, the majority of the republics of South America are busily engaged in actual warfare.

Argentina and Uruguay arrived at a peaceful compromise over their differences a short time ago. Colombia enjoys a period of relief from strife Venezuela is under the iron hand of an adroit and alert dictator, and presents an outward aspect of peace. But apart from these four, every republic on the South American Continent is either engaged in bitter fighting or has just begun a breathing spell from conflict.

Peru is Colombia's enemy to remain quiescent long, for her only part on the Amazon was recently seized by Peruvian bandits, and the Peruvian Government has just emerged from a fierce struggle with Communists and is feeling warlike.

And in Brazil the most serious of all the civil wars is raging between the wealthy State of Sao Paulo and the Federal Government. Brazil is no stranger to civil war, but this conflict is more bitter than any that have preceded it in recent years, and the people of Sao Paulo are fighting with a fierce determination and an enthusiasm that is giving the Federal authorities grave cause for concern.

They are making their own arms and ammunition; they are holding all the important strategic posts successfully against the Federal troops.

The causes of this blaze of armed conflict are various, but nearly all of them can be traced directly back to economic factors that have either been caused, or aggravated by, the world-depression. It should be borne in mind, however, that military competition in South America are not so serious, as a rule, as those in European countries, since the people of the South American countries have developed a habit of dismantling a Government by such methods, when it has proved unworkable. None the less, the conflict throughout the continent generally are being inspired by these civil conflicts, and so long as they continue they constitute a serious handicap to the rehabilitation of the financial status of the countries involved.

Mechanical Progress

New Inventions Have Not Always Proven To Be Unmixed Blessings

Gone is the old questioning rapture of the scientist of the Victorian age, who assumed as a matter of course that every triumph of mind over matter, every new harnessing of the forces of nature to the will of mankind must be an unqualified boon, and that all movement must be progress to a better and a happier state. The reflective scientist of today is not so sure. Ultimately, and in the long run perhaps, there must be benefit. But he cannot shut his eyes to the fact that while the mechanical sciences have added enormously to the pageantry and variety of modern life, they have produced by no means unnumbered blessings. Industrialism's glaring sins of omission and commission; the perversion of science to the perfecting of instruments of destruction; the terrible ruthlessness of relieving wheels; the smashing effect which a single new invention may have upon the lives and homes of thousands—these have to be remembered when we worship mechanical progress.—London Daily Telegraph.

Herriot Describes War As Collective Crime

French Premier Says His Country Desires Security For Nations

France is anxious to create a regime of security in Europe, guaranteeing all nations, including Germany, complete tranquillity, Premier Edouard said in the course of a recent address.

Affirming that his Government's primary object is to maintain peace, Herriot described war as "a collective crime."

"It is astonishing," he said, "that morals and justice are so severe regarding homicide, and are so negligent toward political leaders guilty of causing the massacre of entire peoples."

Herriot praised the British memorandum replying to Germany's demand for arms equality, declaring that "we gladly note that we are not the only ones to declare that rearmament of Germany would be the beginning of a return to our old follies."

The fact that stamps cost three cents instead of two doesn't seem to deter any of our creditors from sending along the monthly duns.

Year after year Firestone has led the way in giving car owners extra tire values to save them money. For this alone it would pay you to buy Firestone—but, in addition, Firestone is the only tire that can give you all these extra values:

1—Two Extra Cords Under the Tread.

2—Gun-Dipped Cords.

3—Balanced Construction.

4—Non-Skid Safety Tread.

As a result of these extra features Firestone gives 25% to 40% longer tire life—no extra cost.

Why This Roughness

Within the past three days we have travelled the highways from Traverso to Calgary and in the imme-been dragged. Who is responsible for this deplorable condition of our roads and what is the reason why our immediate vicinity is neglected? We would like to have someone explain to us why this should be.

Four animals went to a circus: a duck, a pig, a frog and a skunk. All got in but one. The duck had a bill
the pig had four quarters; the frog had a greenback;
but the skunk only had a cent, and that was a bad one.
